

Project Name: Boulder Day Nursery, Lafayette, CO

Owner & Architect: Steve Callander, Kristin Lewis Architects

- 5,000 square feet of classroom space, 3,500 square feet of office space

- Fast tracked schedule to build a new early childhood learning center and county offices into an existing core and shell

“The work done thus far was high quality and completed on time and within or under budget. I especially appreciate the effort Milo puts in on the front end, using design-build principles in partnership with the architect to understand our needs and suggest cost and time inefficiencies. The regulations for schools are complex; Pat Minniear and his team were a great help in designing a school that met those regulations without breaking our budget. These projects were funded in part by public sector dollars. Milo Construction responded diligently to the extra compliance monitoring and paperwork requests that come with such funding...I am very pleased to offer the highest possible recommendation for Milo Construction as an excellent general contractor that Boulder Day Nursery Association considers an indispensable partner in our work to expand our services.” - Steve Callander, Executive Director of Boulder Day Nursery Association
